Toys for Tots Run next week

By JOY CHRISTMAS
NAVSTA Public Affairs Staff

The annual Marine Corps Toys for Tots Run/Walk will take place Nov. 2 at 2 p.m. from the Marine Corps Detachment (MARDET) at Naval Station (NAVSTA). All hands and family members are welcome and encouraged to participate.

Each participant should bring a new, unwrapped toy to donate.

The 1.5-mile route will leave MARDET, cross the pedestrian bridge to Coddington Point, head toward the Navy Exchange, make a loop through the NEX parking lot, and back to MARDET. Marines from Inspector-Instructor Staff in Providence will be at the finish line to accept and deposit the toys into a truck.

Boxes will be placed at various locations throughout the base to continue a collection in support of the annual toy drive. In addition, Toys for Tots posters will be provided to those who would like to place a collection box at their command or facility.

For further information or details of events, contact Staff Sgt. Manases Cabrera, in Providence, at (401) 461-2473.

Coordinated by the Marine Corps Reserve, the Toys for Tots program collected 5,000 toys its first year in 1947. That number now averages about 8 million annually, helping to make a brighter holiday for thousands of children nationwide.

'Lost' war snapshots printed for exhibit

A medical flight surgeon armed with a stethoscope and a $5 camera fired off thousands of snapshots during his tour of duty in Europe between 1942 and 1945.

The photos were never intended for public display and, in fact, never developed into prints. Now, nearly 50 years later, Dr. Michael DiMaio's photos document his personal journey through World War II.

A collection of those images will be featured in a public exhibit, "Through the Eyes of a Soldier" Nov. 8 through Dec. 13 at the University Gallery at Salve Regina University. An opening reception will be held on Wednesday, Nov. 8 from 5:30 to 7 p.m.

Dr. DiMaio, who is the father of Salve Regina philosophy professor Dr. Michael DiMaio, was born in Providence, attended Rhode Island State College (now the University of Rhode Island) and received his medical education at Johns Hopkins University Medical School, graduating in 1939. He interned at the Rhode Island Hospital from 1939-1941, then volunteered for military service in the U.S. Air Force in 1942.

After training in Florida and California, then attending the School of Aviation Medicine in San Antonio, Texas, he qualified as a flight surgeon and was assigned to the 380th Fighter Squadron, 363rd Fighter Group of the 9th Air Force, which was deployed to Europe in 1943 where his squadron participated in the Normandy Campaign, the Air Offense of Europe, Northern France, Central Europe and the Ardennes - "The Battle of the Bulge."

He was officially discharged from military service in 1946 and started the practice of internal medicine in Providence in 1948. He retired from the practice in 1983.

Dr. DiMaio's images were captured on "127" film, which was developed in the squadron's reconnaissance laboratory, but there were no facilities for printing. As a consequence, the thousands of negatives were stored away in a cigar box with Dr. DiMaio's intention to print them soon after his discharge. With his medical practice taking precedence, Dr. DiMaio didn't reopen that cigar box until nearly 50 years later.

The "Through the Eyes of a Soldier" exhibit is open to the public. Gallery hours are Monday through Thursday from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m., Friday from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. and Sunday from 2 to 4 p.m. University Gallery is in Mercy Hall, Lawrence and Leroy Avenues in Newport.

Take safety along Halloween night

By JOY CHRISTMAS
NAVSTA Public Affairs Staff

Ensure your child's Halloween is a treat and a happy and fun childhood experience by making their safety priority one.

The Naval Station (NAVSTA) Newport Police and Security Department personnel suggest trick-or-treating in Navy family housing areas take place between 5 and 8 p.m.

Some good safety tips include:

- Keep walkways clear and well lit for trick-or-treaters.
- Young trick-or-treaters should be accompanied by an adult at all times.
- Older children should never go out alone and stay with their group.
- Stay in familiar neighborhoods and limit trick-or-treating only to the homes of people you know.
- Wear bright colored costumes and use face make-up instead of masks that can obstruct view.

- Costumes should be altered to prevent the possibility of tripping or falling.
- Ensure costumes are flame-retardant to impose no danger near candles or lighted jack-o-lanterns.
- Don't eat any unwrapped candy or snacks.
- Carry a flashlight so you will be seen in poorly lit areas and use reflective tape on costumes and bags or sacks.
- Walk on sidewalks. When not possible, walk on the left side of the road facing traffic.

At NAVSTA, the Navy Exchange (NEX) will sponsor a Halloween Costume Contest and Show tomorrow starting at 1 p.m. in the Children's Department (second floor). Registrations will be accepted until noon at the Customer Service Desk.

Prizes will be awarded for the best costumes.

Public Works lieutenant named MIDLANT Engineer of the Year

Lt. Brian J. Longbottom, Project Management and Engineering Branch Head at Public Works Department, Naval Station (NAVSTA) Newport, has been named the Naval Facilities Engineering Command (NAVFAC) Mid-Atlantic (MIDLANT) Military Engineer of the Year.

He will now compete for the overall NAVFAC Engineer of the Year, said Cmdr. Craig Fulton, NAVSTA's Public Works officer.

Cmdr. Fulton said Longbottom's performance as an engineer, manager and leader has been outstanding over the last three years both at NAVSTA Newport and Norfolk Naval Shipyard in Portsmouth, Va.

At NAVSTA Public Works, he personally led a command transition while managing 25 engineers and project managers responsible for execution of more than 50 contracts valued at more than $100 million.

He personally managed two construction projects that presented technical, schedule and cost problems. He was able to turn negative issues into a positive work environment to meet the client's ultimate requirements, receiving numerous accolades for his leadership and client communication.

Longbottom took the lead on the dismantling of the 63-year-old Navy water tower on West Main Road, Portsmouth, last August. The tower, which was structurally unsound and flaking paint, was next to the Melville Elementary School.

"Under his leadership, the project team developed the solution, implemented the plan, and demolished the tower within three months," Fulton said. "Throughout the project, his problem-solving ability allowed him to identify the root cause of numerous issues, implement a plan of action, and identify secondary plans to ensure the project remained on schedule."

As Public Works operations officer at Norfolk Naval Shipyard, he was responsible for project management, client liaison, and execution of a $27 million annual facilities budget.

He was personally involved in developing and implementing a new work induction system to track clients' requirements from conception through design to execution. This innovative system became the command-wide model and has been implemented at Naval Facilities Engineering Commands throughout the East Coast.

He proactively spearheaded a thorough shipyard-wide safety inspection, which led to identifying and correcting nearly 5,000 discrepancies. His efforts were instrumental in achieving an unprecedented 80 percent reduction in electrical mishaps over a three month period.

As the flu season approaches, Naval Health Care New England has posted an update on vaccinations available to authorized servicemembers, Capt. Murray C. Norcross Jr., Director Health Services/ Director Branch Clinics, Senior Medical Executive, NHCNE, has announced. It is mandatory for active duty servicemembers.

There are two ways to receive the influenza vaccination: The first way is the traditional injection and the other is by the nasal mist, called Flumist.

Currently, the clinic has only the Flumist available, but injections will be distributed to all tenant commands next week.

NHCNE has a large allotment of Flumist, and those between ages 5 and 49 to are encouraged to receive this method.

Pine

ticularly thorny question, and the answer, in many cases, came back as, 'ask Ann.'

Mrs. Pine first came to NAVSTA Newport in 1977 and she has served at the War College since 1984. In 2002 she assumed her post as administrative assistant to the director of personnel, where she would complete her 22 years of service to the college.

Aside from her official duties with Naval Station Newport, Mrs. Pine was active with Jesus Saviour Church and sang with the Newport Navy Choristers.

She was a member of the Vasco de Gama Holy Ghost Society of Newport, the Rosary Sodality and the Holy Ghost Feast Committee. She was graduated from Rogers High School in 1959.

Mrs. Pine is survived by her husband, Francis J. Pine, two brothers, three sisters and two grandchildren.

Her death came as a surprise to many of her colleagues at the War College. She had been fighting leukemia for four years, but her coworkers say that she never let her health stand in the way of her work.

"Ann was always happy, even though she was sick," said Anita Rousseau, secretary to the college's chief of staff. "Ann and I were working late on (a retirement) last December. I was tired, but she kept saying, 'we've got to get this done.' That was her way. She was sick for a while, but never let on. Even though I was tired, she had me laughing by the end of that night."

Mrs. Pine's funeral was held on Thursday, Oct. 19, at Jesus Saviour Church. The church was filled with Navy personnel who all wanted to show their respects and appreciation for her service. Mrs. Pine's cousin, Sister Constance Cawley, delivered the eulogy.

"Sometimes people wouldn't know the admiral's name (at the War College), but they always knew who Ann was," Cawley said. "If you needed an answer, you went to Ann Pine."

After the service, burial was held at Middletown Cemetery.

The War College is preparing a shadow box for Pine's family that will hold the American flag flown over the War College on the day she died.

"Ann was the go-to person for the 'ground truth,'" said Professor John Jackson, director of long range planning at the Naval War College. "She was one of the most committed employees at the college, and she will be missed."

Commissary has applications for Fisher House scholarships

Applications for the 2007 Scholarships for Military Children Program are now available at the Newport Commissary, store director Richard Nornhold has announced.

The Defense Commissary Agency (DeCA) /Fisher House Foundation Scholars scholarships, funded through outside contributions, are awarded annually for each Commissary under DeCA. Since the inception of the program in 2000, over $4.6 million in scholarships have been awarded to 2,967 military dependents from more than 35,000 applicants.

The program was created in recognition of the contributions of military families to the readiness of the fighting force and to celebrate the role of the Commissary in the military family.
